About this Workshop

Imposter Syndrome is that gut wrenching fear of being exposed as a fraud or fake when you take on a new challenge like a job or study or when you feel that you don't deserve your successes. Imposter Syndrome can play havoc with your health and well-being, not to mention your career trajectory. In this practical workshop you will discover how to recognise Imposter Syndrome, learn some strategies to deal with it and see it as a positive step on the pathway to success.

Learning Objectives

After attending this workshop you will:

- Be able to define Imposter Syndrome, identify its characteristics and understand who is susceptible to it
- Complete a questionnaire that assesses your own propensity for Imposter Syndrome and reflect on your results
- Understand the cycle of Imposter Syndrome
- Understand the role of procrastination, trying too hard, perfectionism and dismissing positive feedback in perpetuating the Imposter cycle
- Look at 15 strategies to manage Imposter Syndrome, instead of it managing you
- Be able to recognise Imposter Syndrome in others at work
- Review some strategies for managing and supporting employees with Imposter Syndrome.

Who is this Workshop for?

This workshop is for executives, managers and professionals working in any industry, new graduates and adult students. It is equally for those who feel like an imposter as it is those who are trying to identify and support people with Imposter Syndrome.
